

Character, Morals & Values

In order to equip today's youth for success and have positive mental health, teaching good character, morals and values is extremely important. This is often lacking in our schools and homes, but together we can make a difference.

At the end of 2022 more than 1.23 million US citizens were incarcerated *

As a result, we are seeing an increase in depression at younger ages leading to higher rates of suicide and a disconnect from society and relationships.
